Hear an update from United Way Executive Director Kim Adkins – Executive Director Kim Adkins explained that this year is the 80th Anniversary for the local United Way program and provided a brief history of the organization. Adkins attributes the local United Way success to a generous community along with the organization's volunteers and leadership over the years. A new campaign goal will be announced at their next meeting. Vice Mayor Martin questioned the HEY Collaborative, Adkins explained that it was still funded but fell under a different category. Council Member Bowles asked about uncollected pledges and if an individual could donate from their paycheck or if it would need to go through the employer. Adkins explained they would work with any individual wishing to make a donation.

Continue the joint public hearing with the Martinsville Planning Commission on the Zoning Ordinance update and consider approval of the ordinance on first reading - Chairman Tim Martin called the Planning Commission to order and commended those participants on the Planning Commission. Susan McCulloch, Zoning Administrator explained that some items were left undone at the previous meeting and have since been reviewed, revised and corrected since meeting with the Planning Commission. She said Council had a list of changes made to the zoning ordinance. McCulloch explained that most resident requests for changes were honored with few exceptions. City Attorney Monday said there was a concern voiced at the Planning Commission hearing and from a resident regarding non-conforming properties that do not conform but are grandfathered in. If that property is destroyed by fire for example, then it would need to be built back to conform to current requirements and could cause financial hardship on the property owner. Monday explained Council options and property owner options in that case. Monday's recommendation is to leave the ordinance unchanged with the variance process in case of financial hardship to the property owner. Hodge asked about the $200 application fee, Monday confirmed that fee could be waived to prevent further hardship to the property owner. Council Member Lawson expressed her concern about the ordinance and the compassion needed for homeowners who may not be able to afford to rebuild to meet the ordinance. Tim Martin asked Council to not take specifics out of context and asked Council to allow the Board of Appeals to do their job in individual circumstances. Planning Commission representative Ural Harris noted that the variance request could take a month to 6 months to get approval to rebuild a home on the same foundation. Harris said residents are unhappy with the cost along with the time period to get approval. Mayor Teague reopened the public hearing. No one approached the podium so Teague closed the hearing. McCulloch asked the Planning Commission strike the Residential over Commercial limit of three apartments from C-UB, p.14-3, Section C. and to strike limit of three from C-N. Tim Martin made a motion to approve the amendment; Sarah Krauss seconded the motion with all Planning Commission Members voting in favor. Martin made a motion to send the Zoning Ordinance to Council; Krauss seconded the motion with all members voting in favor. Harris expressed his concern about the variance timeframe. Planning Commission adjourned. Council Member Hodge made a motion to approve the ordinance and map as amended by the Planning commission on June 22 and June 27, 2017; Vice Mayor Martin seconded the motion. Teague verified that if there is a resident with a hardship, the variance process could be expedited on an individual basis. Council Member Hodge requested that Council revisit the $200 fee to apply for variance at a future date. Council Member Lawson asked how long it would take to update the amended document to the website. McCulloch said the consultant had the Word document but does not feel that it will take long. All Council Members voted in favor of approving the ordinance on first reading: Vice Mayor Martin, aye; Council Member Bowles, aye; Council Member Lawson, aye; Council Member Hodge, aye; and Mayor Teague, aye.

Consider a review of the City's finance report – Finance Director Conover summarized the finance report. Council Member Lawson made a motion to approve the finance report, Council Member Hodge seconded the motion with all Council Members voting in favor.
